Council thanks volunteers

Yorke Peninsula Council celebrated the region's volunteers with a special morning tea on Tuesday, 21 May.

Mayor Darren Braund hosted more than 100 volunteers at the Minlaton Town Hall as part of National Volunteer Week, 20-26 May.

The morning tea was to recognise people for their dedication and hard work, as well as to provide a relaxed environment and a networking opportunity for volunteers.

This year, Mayor Braund interviewed Maree Anderson (Southern Yorke Peninsula RFDS Support Group) and David Newbold (Minlaton District Community and Sports Centre) as part of the event.

"National Volunteers Week is the perfect opportunity to extend our gratitude to the amazing volunteers across Yorke Peninsula," Mr Braund said.

"From organising events to supporting local clubs, assisting in libraries, maintaining our beautiful parks, and helping those in need, volunteers' contributions make a difference every single day."

The theme for National Volunteer Week 2024 was Something for Everyone, recognising the diverse passions and talents everyone brings to the act of volunteering.

Council supports volunteering efforts in a variety of ways including annual allocations to the region's 32 Progress Associations, sponsorships and donations (subject to applications), event approvals and more.

"Volunteering brings people together, it builds communities and creates a better society for everyone," Mayor Braund said.

"National Volunteer Week is a chance for all of us to celebrate and recognise the vital work of volunteers and to say thank you."

NEARING COMPLETION... Director of Assets and Infrastructure Andre Kompler and Mayor Darren Braund check out the progress on North Coast Road, Point Turton.

North Coast Road Stage 2 near completion

As stage two of the North Coast Road, Point Turton, upgrade nears completion, Yorke Peninsula Council has submitted a grant application for the third and final stage.

Stage 2 of the project has included 1.82 kilometres of drainage works, pavement strengthening and a primer seal.

A follow-up final seal over the primer seal, along with line marking, will occur later in the year.

Director of Assets and Infrastructure Andre Kompler said Stage 2 has included more value engineering and collaborative design review involving both Council's engineering staff and a design consultant.

This collaboration has led to more cost-effective construction solutions while still achieving project life intent, Mr Kompler said.

"In the design area alone, Council and Tonkin Consulting were able to reduce project costs by 18% or $400,000," he said.

"This was achieved through the use of vertical alignment and cross-section refinement, the use of one-way cross-fall which saved on kerb needs, and the use of fit-for-purpose High-Density Polyethylene (HDPE) in lieu of concrete culverts.

"Additionally, helpful for Stage 2 delivery was a very competitive contractor market, which saw an additional $400,000 saved relative to the original project budget without any compromise to quality or project delivery."

Mr Kompler said he is hopeful the last 7km stage of the upgrade will start in December, subject to grant funding.

"While Stage 3 will not be sealed, the pavement will be more resistant to wear and tear and be a marked improvement," Mr Kompler said.

Mayor Darren Braund said the upgraded road has made it safer for all who navigate the route.

"The road surface and safety improvements will enhance the tourism journey," Mr Braund said.

"Yorke Peninsula is a magnet for intra-regional and interstate visitation, so positive visitor experiences are really important."

$550,000 for Edithburgh jetty

Yorke Peninsula Council will receive about $550,000 to install a new staircase with platforms for divers and snorkelers to improve access and visitor experience at the Edithburgh jetty.

Council was successful in applying to the Australian Government's Growing Regions Program which provides funding to local government entities and incorporated not-for-profit organisations for capital works projects that deliver community and economic infrastructure projects.

Edithburgh Progress Association will contribute a further $10,000 towards the dive stairs project.

"The community of Edithburgh and surrounds, and the wider diving and snorkelling community in South Australia, has been excited for this project and we are pleased the successful funding has now been announced," CEO Andrew Cameron said.

"The project will allow safe access to the water for all users and is also specifically designed to benefit divers and snorkellers who frequent Edithburgh jetty as one of Australia's premier underwater ecosystems.

"Thank you to Council staff who developed this project with the local community and all residents and stakeholders who participated in that planning effort.

"We look forward to now delivering the project which will be a major upgrade for Edithburgh jetty."

The dive stairs project was developed in collaboration with the local community and key stakeholders.

Consultation was extensive, and included a public co-design workshop held in Edithburgh in November 2022.

The project will create new access stairs on the north side of the jetty, replacing the former northern steps which were decommissioned after being irreparable since 2018, with platforms at different heights to allow easy access for divers regardless of the tides.

The stairs will sit atop a submerged cube structure featuring artificial reef panels to further enhance the underwater ecosystem and appeal to divers and snorkellers.

Edithburgh jetty is considered one of the best diving locations in South Australia, including being ranked first in the state by Diving Adelaide, for its diverse and rare marine life including the pyjama squid and leafy sea dragon.

This is a key reason the jetty is a major tourism driver for Yorke Peninsula, with more than 50,000 visitors per year, a number that grows almost 6% year on year.

GRANT FUNDING... Mayor Darren Braund is pleased Council has received funding to install dive stairs at the Edithburgh jetty.

Games galore at YorKON 2024

The Yorke Peninsula Council's 5th YorKON Games Convention went off without a glitch, attracting its largest crowd ever. The recent free two-day event, which was an exhilarating celebration of gaming and pop culture, attracted a crowd of 700 people.

"This event provides the local community, especially young people and their families, with the unique opportunity to engage in a fun and social games event," Mayor Darren Braund said.

"The two-day convention featured a diverse array of activities, including free play computer games, retro games, arcade games, workshops, tabletop games, a costume competition, and a local collector display."

"Many of the attendees transformed into incredibly accurate portrayals of characters including a Dalek from Dr Who, Maleficent, Rey from Star Wars and a family of Ghostbusters who all won the best dressed competition."

This year, YorKON also included a quiz night which attracted teams of pop culture fanatics wanting to showcase their expertise across gaming and anime genres.

"The convention was a hit with something for all ages to enjoy," Mayor Darren Braund said.

"I'm pleased so many people supported this unique event and I would like to thank Council staff for making it possible.

This event gets bigger and better each year and Council is excited to see it continue to grow in the future."

The event's success was made possible thanks to Council's event partners, which included Team AvCon, Copper Coast Table Top Gamers, Retrospekt, Little Adventurers, Southern Dewback Garrison – 501st Legion, Cold Creature Art, Ben's IT Communications, SYP Community Hub, Maitland and District Progress Association, Oh My Grill, Yorke Solar, One More Page, and Bubble Tea Tastic.

COMING TO MINLATON... Uni Hub staff members Sue Barry and Renae Murdoch at the Minlaton Council Office, where Uni Hub will now offer outreach services.

Uni Hub coming to Minlaton

Residents on the Yorke Peninsula are set to benefit from a new collaboration between Uni Hub Spencer Gulf and the Yorke Peninsula Council that will improve local access to tertiary education opportunities.

The partnership will see the introduction of a one day per month Uni Hub outreach service based at the Yorke Peninsula Council office in Minlaton, providing the opportunity for people in the district to study a range of university qualifications without the need to move to Adelaide.

Uni Hub Spencer Gulf CEO Anita Kuss explained the outreach will connect and support Yorke Peninsula residents throughout their university journey, from enrolment through to graduation.

"We have a wide range of amazing career opportunities available right here in our own backyard, and now, with the support of Uni Hub, access to the tertiary study pathways straight into those careers – without having to leave home," she said.

"The Uni Hub partners with a variety of universities to support local delivery of course that address key areas of professional skill shortage in the region.

"Academic lectures are delivered by our partner universities online, but students receive local face-to-face support with everything from initial study enquiries, enrolment processes, navigating the online learning platform, access to local tutors, coordination of residential schools and industry placements, along with connection to local employers.

"Through existing university study centres in Kadina, Port Pirie, Port Augusta, Port Lincoln and Roxby Downs, the Uni Hub already supports well over 300 students from right across the Mid North, Yorke Peninsula, Far North and Eyre Peninsula.

"We are pleased to have the chance to work more closely with smaller communities like those in the Yorke Peninsula district and appreciate the invitation and support provided by the Council to make this happen."

Yorke Peninsula Council Mayor Darren Braund welcomed the Uni Hub outreach initiative and encouraged local young people to take advantage of this new opportunity.

"The Uni Hub's outreach service promises to be an important addition to help those studying remotely, and those seeking more information about possible university pathways," Mayor Braund said.

"It will offer our residents who want, or need, to remain living on the Yorke Peninsula, a human connection to help them through their studies.

"I'm very pleased that the service will be available from our Minlaton office."

The Minlaton outreach service began on Wednesday, 29 May and will be available at Minlaton's Yorke Peninsula Council office on the last Wednesday of each month.

General Rate Review out for consultation

An independent rate review commissioned by Yorke Peninsula Council is now out for public consultation. Councils review their rating structures periodically to ensure rates paid are fair, and sufficient to fund the services their communities expect. The draft review has been developed by UHY Haines Norton to ensure independent, unbiased recommendations. Consultation about many different options has taken place at Council Information and Briefing Sessions, resulting in the draft document now being released for a formal community engagement process. Key changes proposed include:

- New rating categories pertaining to:
  - Resource Extraction
  - Bulk Handling
- Increasing the rate-in-the-dollar applied to:
  - Vacant Land
- Reduction in the rate-in-the-dollar applied to:
  - Primary production

The suggested changes in rating methodology have been designed to provide a balance between the principles of taxation, community needs and Council’s broader economic and development objectives. The review identified that Yorke Peninsula Council may benefit from improving the equity in rate distribution across its communities. It was noted that Primary Producers currently pay about half the rates of those in neighbouring Council areas. The result of this is that other ratepayers, notably residential ratepayers, have been paying more than their fair share of rates for many years. Another consequence is that Council has not raised adequate rates income comparative to its land value to maintain its extensive infrastructure network despite spending over one third of its total budget on roads at present.

“We thank UHY Haines Norton for their work drafting the General Rate Review, which aims to place Council in a financially sustainable position with capacity to maintain our assets moving forward,” CEO Andrew Cameron said.

“The proposed increase to vacant land aims to encourage development and discourage land banking. For all individual ratepayers, the value of their property will remain the primary factor that affects the rates they pay.”

Consultation will run from Wednesday, 29 May, until Thursday, 27 June. An information session will be held in Minlaton Town Hall at 5.30pm Wednesday, 5 June, and members of the public will have the ability to appear before Council in Minlaton Town Hall at 5.30pm on Wednesday, 26 June (people are asked to advise Council ahead of time if they intend to appear before Council). ## VIO Training Day in Minlagawi

Visitor Information Outlet volunteers from throughout Yorke Peninsula attended a training and networking event at Minlagawi-Gum Flat, Minlaton, on Thursday, 23 May.

More than 20 people learned about the latest tourism experiences available locally during the session, hosted by Nharangga Aboriginal Cultural Tours in partnership with Yorke Peninsula Council and Yorke Peninsula Tourism.

Speakers discussed the importance of tourism to the peninsula, and the valuable role played by VIO representatives in providing local information to visitors.

"VIO volunteers are at the forefront of our visitor economy, which is worth $380 million to Yorke Peninsula and growing by eight to 10 per cent every year," YP Tourism Regional Tourism Manager Jess Greatwich said.

A focus of the day was the growing range of bookable tourism experiences throughout the region, which range from sailing on a Sydney-to-Hobart winning yacht to kids' farm tours and much more.

Bennett Joy and Keira Lundgren spoke about their new business Lost Tide Spirits, soon opening in Stansbury, and Lianne Cook from Ballara Retreat discussed the many experiences offered from Ballara in Warooka.

Nharangga Aboriginal Cultural Tours provided a morning tea of modern recipes using traditional ingredients such as kangaroo canapes, pepperberry smoked cheese, wattleseed biscuits and quandong cheesecake.

Owner/operator Shane Warrior then discussed Narangga history and the various tourism initiatives his business offers, including yarnning circles, wadna (boomerang) throwing, and tours with bush foods lunches.

Business manager Cathy Glazbrook, who led the event as emcee, said tourists who visit VIOs want to feel welcome, speak with knowledgeable staff, receive unbiased information and local secrets they can't find online.

"Everybody in your community is an advocate for your town," she said.

"Tourism is everybody's business."

Art mentorship launched

Up-and-coming silversmith Roxanne Storie of Point Turton has been announced as the recipient of the inaugural Yorke Peninsula Council Art Mentorship.

The mentorship, presented by the YP Arts and Culture Working Group, includes a $5000 grant to support the successful artist in their professional development.

The program offers creative professionals essential funding and support to develop their artistic practice through meaningful mentorship.

The artist-led mentorship connects the recipient with an experienced mentor who has a strong arts practice.

"Roxanne has been passionate about making jewellery since childhood, especially using items she has collected from the beach," Arts and Cultural Facilitator Sonya Rankine said.

"Nature inspires her work, and she has recently discovered a love for silversmithing.

"Her goal as a silversmith artist is to create eco-friendly pieces from recycled silver and repurposed or hand-collected gemstones."

Roxanne will be mentored by Jasmine Swales, a well-established silversmith from Marion Bay.

"Jasmine is a small business owner of Studio Surf and Swales Silver, a well-known artist and workshop facilitator," Ms Rankine said.

"Jasmine's current focus as a practicing artist is handcrafting silver jewellery with inspiration from the natural world.

"She mainly works with sterling silver and repurposes sea glass using a variety of methods including casting, bezel setting, metal clay, and saw piercing.

"Jasmine is the perfect mentor to guide Roxanne through the inaugural YPC Art Mentorship."

Artist in residency announcement

Yorke Peninsula Council is thrilled to announce Jason Swales as the first recipient of the two-week Artists in Residency program.

The program, made possible by the Council in partnership with the YP Arts & Culture Working Group and the Ballara Art and Lifestyle Retreat, aims to provide a unique opportunity for a local artist to fully immerse themselves in their craft.

The residency will be held at the picturesque Ballara Art and Lifestyle Retreat in Warooka.

"The program emphasises community engagement, allowing the artist in residence to collaborate with the local community, sharing their artistic practices and skills," Arts and Cultural Facilitator Sonya Rankine said.

"This initiative is designed to foster a deeper connection between artists and the community, enriching the cultural fabric of the region."

Jason Swales is a self-taught artist from Marion Bay with a passion for the coast and surfing.

"His artwork, primarily focused on coastal scenery and waves, is created using acrylics and pastels and ranges from postcard-sized pieces to large murals," Ms Rankine said.

"Jason's residency will not only contribute to his personal artistic development but also enhance his ongoing involvement in painting murals on local infrastructure.

"This opportunity will enable him to build connections with project partners and fellow artists within the region, further strengthening his arts career and community ties."

During his residency, Jason plans to create a public mural in Warooka and mentor local artists.

"He will also hold wave painting workshops for the community, with a particular focus on engaging young people," Ms Rankine said.

"The artworks produced in these community workshops will be exhibited locally at the Baker Bros Gallery in Warooka following the residency.

"This program not only highlights the talent within the Yorke Peninsula but also underscores the region's commitment to fostering and celebrating local arts and culture."

Jason's artist residency will take place in June.

Free agriculture-tourism workshop at Sunny Hill

Agri-tourism has been identified as an industry primed for massive growth, and this represents a significant opportunity for the Yorke Peninsula region.

Locals who have agri-tourism ventures, ideas for start-ups, or who want to learn more, are urged to register for an upcoming free workshop to be held at Sunny Hill Distillery, Arthurton, 10am to 3pm Wednesday, 19 June.

The event will feature a distillery tour and tasting followed by an informative presentation by special guest speaker Susan Lee from Clear Vision Consulting, author of Booked Out! How to Start and Grow a Successful Regional Tourism Business.

Local agri-tourism operator Meg Honner will share her story, and Yorke Peninsula Tourism Regional Tourism Manager Jess Greatwich will discuss the importance of the agri-tourism sector to the local economy.

"Agri-tourism and other farm-based side businesses can add value to farming enterprises and provide consistent secondary income," Yorke Peninsula Council Manager Economic Development and Business Sustainability Nick Perry said.

"Such ventures also enhance the appeal of a district for tourists, increasing visitor spend and benefiting the wider economy.

"There is strong potential for agri-tourism on Yorke Peninsula, where agriculture and tourism are our two biggest industries, and this is demonstrated in the recently released South Australian Agritourism Sector Plan 2025."

The workshop is an initiative of Yorke Peninsula Council in partnership with Regional Development Australia Yorke and Mid North, and Yorke Peninsula Tourism.
